The bird feeders have been full when the wind was not too hard. Six different kinds.

Five gray squirrels are also with us and at night rats, mice, flying squirrels and a pair of saw-whet owls. But sorry to say one died on David Fleet's piazza so poor I don't see how the feathers stuck to its body. They are the smallest of our owls, not as large as a blue jay. Brown in color. The wind has blown away a little snow in places to bare spots, so perhaps a bit of food can be found.

The wind kept the children away from school one day.

All the news and questions this week have been "what's the weather". Well it took the thermo-

EMPLOYERS SHOULD CONTINUE TO USE CURRENT TAX GUIDE

Because there have been no changes in the Federal income tax and social security withholding rates for 1968, employers should continue to use their present copy of Circular E, "Employer's Tax Guide," Whitney L. Wheeler, District Director of Internal Revenue for Maine, advised today.

Mr. Wheeler stressed that employers should not be expecting a new issuance of Circular E, also referred to as Publication No. 15, but should use their current edition for withholding information and tables.

Employers can make certain they have the latest edition of the "Employer's Tax Guide" by checking that the front cover bears the notation, Publication No. 15 (Rev. Jan. 1967).

While there has been no increase in the social security tax rate for 1968, Mr. Wheeler pointed out that the maximum annual income subject to social security has been increased from $6,800 to $7,800 for both employees and the self-employed, effective Jan. 1, 1968.

The social security employee tax tables in the current Circular E can be used to accommodate this increase, Mr. Wheeler said.

The University of Maine's Bureau of Public Administration will sponsor a three-day Municipal Fire Administration Institute at the Orono campus February 1-3. The program will be offered exclusively for Maine fire chiefs and their command personnel and deals specifically with the leadership and management functions of the local fire service. Registration materials may be obtained from the Bureau of Public Administration, 29 North Stevens, U. of M., Orono, and the number of participants will be limited to 50. Early registration is advisable.

ALIENS HAVE UNTIL JANUARY 31 TO REGISTER ADDRESSES

C. C. Doughty, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service urges all aliens in Maine who have not yet filled out alien address report forms, to do so before January 31 at the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service office or local Post Office.

The Immigration official pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens, except persons in diplomatic status and foreign representatives to certain international organizations, such as the United Nations, to report their addresses to the Government each January.

Mr. Doughty added: "The parent or legal guardian of an alien child under 14 years of age must fill out the address report form for such a child in order to comply with the law."

He declared: "We have tried to make it as convenient as possible for non-citizens to meet the address report requirements; and, in view of serious penalties for willful violation, all persons subject to the address report law are urged to fulfill this obligation before the end of January."

Mr. Doughty advised: "It is easy for an alien to meet this requirement. He just goes to the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service office or Post Office, fills out the address report form, and returns it to the clerk. Any non-citizen who is ill may send a friend or relative to obtain the card for him, and return it to the clerk after it has been completed by the alien."

The Immigration official said that 18,000 aliens in Maine already have filled out address reports. He estimated that over 21,000 such reports will be submitted before January 31.

It is urged that registration be completed by January 31.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Some 14,000 Maine veterans and dependents receiving non-service-connected pensions from the Veterans Administration were mailed form cards on which to report their annual income, the VA reported.

The check-sized income report cards, enclosed with the November pension checks, must be filled out and returned to the VA by January 31 or payment of the pension will be stopped, the VA reminded. The law requires that payment be stopped if income is not reported.

The forms are again simplified this year, and designed for faster processing in automatic accounting machines.

In addition to requesting that the cards not be folded, torn or mutilated, the VA this year is also asking pension recipients to return the window envelopes that are enclosed with their November check and income questionnaires.

The VA asks that the questionnaire card be put in the return envelope so that the pre-printed VA address shows through the envelope window.

The income questionnaires are going to all veterans and dependents of deceased veterans on VA's non-service-connected pension rolls, and to parents of deceased veterans who are receiving dependency and indemnity payments.

Assistance in completing the income questionnaire may be obtained at the VA Contact Division, Tegus and the VA Office, 78 Canal Street, Portland.

NEW RECREATIONAL THERAPY PROGRAM AT RUMFORD HOSPITAL

To better meet the total needs of patients, a new recreational therapy program is developing at Rumford Community Hospital. It's also a community project since its success will depend a great deal on community volunteers.

E. E. Loubier, administrator, has appointed Miss Terry Beaudet, R. N., to head the program. She will be assisted by Miss Norma Sidelinger, R. N., clinical specialist in rehabilitation nursing, and Mrs. Thais Surrette, outpatient department aide.

The objective of the program is to recognize the total care of a patient in a short-term general hospital, by realizing his need for intellectual and psychological stimulation as well as his need for physical attention. This can be easily accomplished through an organized recreational program. Patients able to be up may leave the confines of their rooms and enjoy the social setting of the recreational area. Here, aided by volunteers, they may enjoy supervised games, music, arts and crafts, movies, or a unique book service for a two-hour activity period. Volunteers will visit the rooms of patients unable to get out of bed. Patients special needs will be considered as determined by Miss Sidelinger, clinical specialist in rehabilitation nursing.

The book service will be delivered through two channels. One will be a personal reading service by volunteers, and the other, a "Talking Book Service" made available through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Division for the Blind, and the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. The "Talking Book Service" consists of standard recordings to be played on a phonograph. Recordings are available in literally thousands of titles in popular books, classics, and even monthly periodicals such as TIME, LIFE, NEWSWEEK, and others. Up to a year ago, this service was available only to the blind, but legislation has made this also available to the physically handicapped and hospitalized patients. The "Talking Book Service" was the original plan for this program. Loubier, enthused with the benefits for patients to be derived from such a service, appointed Miss Beaudet several weeks ago to head the program here. About this time, a local retired citizen expressed an interest in reading to patients under some supervised program. This stimulated further ideas for chairman, Miss Beaudet, who proceeded to develop plans for the new recreational therapy program anticipating further assistance from community volunteers.

An excellent variety of current book recordings for all age groups has already been obtained for the "Talking Book Service". Two record players, equipped with earphones, have also been received from the Department of Health, Education

N. E. INDUSTRIAL SHOW IN BOSTON NEXT MONTH

Economic Development Commissioner James K. Keefe says that Maine has received a "free" offer from representatives of a new industrial firm to make personal appearances in a sell-Maine, industrially gesture during the State's exhibit at the New England Industrial Show next month in Boston.

President Benjamin Volk and Vice-President and General Manager Kenneth Volk of the Volk Packaging Company of Biddeford will be at the show to extol Maine's industrial location advantages and distribute literature on the State's overall industrial picture.

Their specialty will be the answering of questions about Maine's current and potential opportunities.

Keefe said the offer "most certainly has been accepted with a great deal of appreciation."

The show at Suffolk Downs, Feb. 6 to 9 will be one of the nation's two most important industrial exhibitions in which the State of Maine will participate this year. The other will be the display of the Instrument Society of America in the New York Coliseum late in October.

Richard Kelso of DED's Division of Development said "This is a wonderful and unusual offer from these thoughtful Maine industrialists, and we deeply appreciate their keen interest and participation in behalf of the State."

The industrialists also own and operate the Douglas Distributing Company of Lynn, Mass., a distributor of corrugated containers.

and Welfare on a permanent loan basis. The recordings are very soothing and relaxing, and will be available for use at the bedside of any patient. A compact recreation cart for games, magazines and books, will be used in the activity room or may be transported to patients' bedsides. The Rumford Public Library has further boosted this program with the donation of a generous supply of books. These will be available in the activity room for patients to review, and also on the cart. The committee is presently seeking a second-hand piano to add to the recreational materials.

This ambitious program is unique for a small hospital. But the total care effort for patients, which will help make their stay happier is well worth it. Its success will be determined by the availability of community volunteers. Miss Beaudet, chairman, urges the help and support of citizens in this community project and says: "There is a great deal of people-resources available in our community. Let's join and put them to work effectively. Your talents are needed." Volunteers of all ages, and particularly retired people, are urged to notify the personnel department of the hospital if they would like to share a few hours weekly helping others. The two-way benefits to be derived are many!

WAGES AND COMPENSATION REPORTABLE BY EMPLOYERS

Employers must include both wages and certain other compensation paid employees on 1967 Forms W-2, Wage and Tax Statements. Whitney L. Wheeler, District Director of Internal Revenue for Maine, has announced.

Other compensation payments includes such items as (1) travel or other expense allowances, (2) the cost of certain group-term life insurance purchased for employees, and (3) the value of non-cash prizes to cash commission salesmen, where no income tax is withheld.

This rule applies to payments, cash or non-cash, if they amount to $600 or more in a calendar year or if the total of employee wages plus other compensation amounts to $600 or more.

More detailed information on this subject is contained in the 1968 edition of Circular E, Employer's Tax Guide, and can be obtained free, by sending a post card to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, 83 Sewall Street, Augusta, Maine 04330.

WOODSTOCK

Religious Liberty Day will be observed in the South Woodstock Seventh-day Adventist Church on January 20.

At the 11:30 morning service, Pastor Shaw will speak and in the light of present day events point out the trend to repudiate our Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

The separation of church and state, a principle upon which our Nation was built is in danger.

The "Liberty," a magazine with a circulation of 420,000, is dedicated to the subject of our personal and civil liberties, and should be read by every citizen who loves freedom.

A thirty-minute filmstrip about this same subject will be shown at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE HELD AT METHODIST CHURCH

The annual quarterly conference of the Bethel Methodist Church was held last Tuesday evening at the church on Main Street. A church supper preceded the meeting. Rev. H. Travers Smith, Methodist District Superintendent of the Portland area, presided. Reports of committees and commissions were given. The church treasurer, Albert Buck, reported that the year 1967 ended with a credit balance. The church lay leader, Ronald Stevens, reported and it was announced that much progress has been realized in building and repairing the church property. The new minister, Rev. George T. Stebbins, who has been in Bethel since last Aug. 1, reported on his work as pastor. In spite of the frigid temperatures of Maine he finds Bethel and the Methodist Church a wonderful place to live and work. "The intelligent and cooperative kind of people we are now with are the greatest asset of our ministry in the community," says Rev. Stebbins.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Collista Morgan, Cor. —

Cold, Cold! Everybody talked about it this week. On Monday morning the road from the corner to the school house was just another part of the field. It had been well fed with whipped snow. No ones fault but Mr. Wind with whom the plows could not keep up. A friend called me to dress for a snow plunge. I did and waded in from that corner. It seemed like the old times before school bus days. How many times I have waded that road! At least I didn't have to shovel my doors before entering as I have in years gone by. Then the shovel was left outside "in case". It was also warm when I entered. No fire to build. That was a memory, too.

We pulled our shades to help keep out the wind, stayed in, turned up the furnace and let it blow, and how! Tuesday everyone stayed home.

The remainder of the week "my train never got in on time". Each day when I'd think, "a class will be on schedule now", the Flu Bug arrived. A sick child. Another chore to do. The sand from the sand table became especially useful. The "Bug" didn't get me (yet). I had hot water and a strong right arm with which to scrub and we made it for the week. There were very few complaints. - Guess we all learned there are some briers and rough stones that occasionally block our road in this life and that one must share the difficulties and be thankful for strength to remove them.

These letters are sincere and full of interest. This one said, "Christmas, we sat on a bridge on guard. It was really just another day, I thought a lot about people back home. "COMPREHENSIVE" FEDERAL MANPOWER PROGRAM APT TO BE EXPENSIVE

Proposed expansion of the Federal-state employment service into a "comprehensive manpower services system" apparently has little support among the nation's small employers some of whom seem to feel that in government circles "comprehensive" means "expensive".

The Administration is pushing for legislation which it says will "strengthen and improve" the Labor Department's Employment Service.

But many small businessmen are dubious.

This is revealed by a poll of independent businessmen conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business which shows 72 percent oppose the Employment Service Act of 1967, 22 percent favor it and six percent are undecided.

In Maine, the vote was 21 percent for the measure, 74 percent against it, and five percent undecided.

The "comprehensive manpower services system" proposed by Senator Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania would broaden the functions of the Employment Service to include training programs, counseling and testing services, research studies, fellowship grants, technical assistance to states, and advice and assistance to employers.

Senator Clark said the bill would update and replace depression period legislation which created the Employment Service primarily as a labor exchange-finding jobs for available workers and finding workers for available jobs. Broader services are now required, he maintains.

But the independent businessmen do not seem to agree. The employment service is already engaged in a wide range of activities under the general provisions of the original legislation.

The National Federation research staff believes that they oppose the Clark bill as an extension of bureaucracy and welfare, and a further infringement upon free enterprise employment agencies.

In recent years, Congress has passed a variety of manpower training, vocational education and related programs being administered by the Labor Department; the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; the Office of Economic Opportunity, and other agencies.

Many businessmen feel the job training programs of the War on Poverty have been ineffective and take a dim view of the Labor Department's plans for a "comprehensive human resources development program" whose aim would be to improve the employability of persons with chronic employment problems.

Under the bill, special funds for the agency could be appropriated by Congress in addition to money available from the employment security administration account provided by the Social Security Act.

D. E. D. TO REPRESENT STATE AT CONVENTION OF LUMBERMEN'S ASSOCIATION

For the sixth consecutive year the Department of Economic Development will represent the State of Maine at the annual convention and building materials exhibit of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association in New York City. It will be in the New York Hilton January 19, 20, 21.

Maine, one of 135 exhibitors, will be the only state to be officially represented. The Maine exhibit booth will include a large cut-out map of the state with locations of building material producers marked and framed pictures of Maine plants in colors.

Robert A. Lawrence, DED industrial representative who will be in charge of the Maine exhibit, said the convention in past years has provided new product ideas and manufacturing processes, which the department relayed to Maine manufacturers, and also produced leads for bringing new industry to Maine.

Lawrence said contacts made at last year's exhibit resulted in sales of Maine wood products totaling more than $500,000. Sales for cedar shingles came to $37,000, while others involved lumber, building materials and fencing.

SNO BALL CABARET TO BE HELD FEB. 17

The trustees of Bethel Masonic Lodge are again sponsoring a Sno Ball Cabaret to be held the evening of Feb. 17 at William Bingham Gymnasium. Music for dancing will be furnished by the Basil Green Orchestra and the evening's entertainment will also include refreshments.

ERNEST R. GROVER

Ernest R. Grover of North Waterford died early Wednesday morning, Jan. 17, 1968, at a Norway hospital following a short illness.

He was born in Waterford, Aug. 18, 1884, the son of Austin and Nora Webber Grover. Educated in schools of Albany and Waterford, he was employed at the North Waterford Spool Company for many years. He was a member of the North Waterford Grange and a former member of the North Waterford IOOF.

Survivors include a grandson.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:00 p. m. at the North Waterford Congregational Church. Interment will be at Woodlawn Cemetery in the spring. Friends may call at the Huff funeral home in South Paris on Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

By a 15-1 margin, proprietors of independent businesses favor legislation to halt union activities which result in price-fixing, product boycotts and labor restrictions, according to a poll by the National Federation of Independent Business.
